The following is Speed's letter of resignation from the Cabinet. He had written a long letter, but sent in only this:

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., July 16, 1866.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES: Sir—I hereby resign to you the office of Attorney-General of the United States. Be good enough, sir, to accept my thanks for the kindness, consideration and confidence you have ever shown to me. I have the honor to be,
Most respectfully, JAS. SPEED.

Seward's Letter to Doolittle.

The following is Seward's letter to Doolittle:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., July 11, 1866.

SIR—Excuse me for expressing surprise that you ask my opinion upon the call for the proposed Union National Convention at Philadelphia. After more than five years of instruction by civil war, I regard the restoration of the unity of the country, in an immediate as well as its most vital interest. That restoration will be complete when loyal men are admitted as representatives of the loyal people of the eleven States now unrepresented in Congress. Nothing but this consummation is wanting; this is to be done and nothing more is necessary. Every day's delay is attended by increasing inconveniences, controversies and dangers at home and abroad. Congress possesses the power exclusively. After a session of ten months Congress still omits to exercise that power. What can be done to induce Congress to act? This is the question of the day. Whatever is done must be done in accordance with the Constitution and law. It is in perfect accordance with the Constitution and laws that the people of the United States shall assemble by delegates in convention, and that when so assembled they shall address Congress by respectful petition and remonstrance, and that the people in their several States, Districts and Territories shall affirm, sanction and unite in such requests and remonstrances to Congress. No one party could do this effectively, not even should it be willing to do it alone. No loyal organization could do it effectually. It is the interest of all parties alike, of all the States and of the whole national interest of the whole people. The convention indeed may not succeed in inducing Congress to act, but if they fail the attempt can make matters no worse. It will be a lawful and patriotic attempt made in the right direction; an effort to be remembered with pride and satisfaction, whether it succeeds or fails. The original Union of the States was brought about by movements of the same character. The citizen who objects to the convention is bound to propose a better plan of proceeding to effect the desired end. No plan is offered or even thought of. Those who should propose it would seem to manifest at least uncertainty, if not opposition, to all reconstruction, reorganization and reconciliation between the alienated masses of the American people. To admit that the convention will fail would be to admit that the people of the United States are deficient in the wisdom or the virtue necessary to the continued existence of the Republic. I believe no such thing. A great political writer says that every country is divided into two classes, each maintaining distinct notions. The first, fearing the very worst that can possibly happen, and the other hoping under every circumstance the very best that can in any event happen. Without accepting the theory as absolutely true, I think all men do generally act from a motive to guard against public danger, or else from a positive desire to do good. Both classes may, therefore favor the present attempt to restore the unity of the nation.

I am, sir, your very obedient servant,
W. H. SEWARD.

Vallandigham and Bright go to Embrace the President.

BALTIMORE, July 18.—C. L. Vallandigham, J. D. Bright and J. Faulkner, passed through the city last night en route to Washington for an interview with the President. A gentleman who travels with them says one of the objects of their mission is to recommend the appointment of J. B. Weller, formerly of the State of Ohio, now of California, as Secretary of War in view of Stanton's anticipated retirement.

Mexican News.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The steamer Moro Castle brings Havana dates to July 14th.

Late advices from Mexico state that the Liberals occupied Hualula, Colotan had been abandoned by the Liberals. The chief Martinez, attacked Urezin, Sonora, on the 13th of May, but was repulsed. Morales was at the North American line receiving arms and powder.

It is stated that Corona had received six pieces of cannon at Altata, from San Francisco.

A French gunboat arrived at Tampico to aid the naval forces.

Letters from Monterey, describe affairs in that section as very gloomy. The frontier is full of Liberals.

Alamos was again invaded by the Liberals under Reguies. The departure of the Emperor had been for the purpose of attending to international affairs. It was rumored that Tampico had fallen into the hands of the Liberals.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—In the House, Bidwell, of California, called up the motion to reconsider the vote by which the Senate bill granting lands to aid in the construction of the railroad and telegraph line from the Central Pacific Railroad of California to Portland, Oregon, was, on July 2d, recommitted to the committee on public lands. The vote was reconsidered, and the bill came up for action, the question being on the substitute reported from the committee on public lands, and authorizing the California and Oregon Railroad Company to locate and maintain a railroad and telegraph line between Portland, Oregon and the Central Pacific Railroad and granting each alternate section of land not mineral, to the amount of 20 alternate sections per each mile on each side of road. The first section of twenty miles to be completed within two years, the road to be of the same guage as the Central Pacific Railroad of California, and to be connected therewith. The substitute was agreed to, and the bill, as amended, passed.

Stevens, of Pennsylvania, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, by the House, the Senate concurring, That when Congress adjourn it will adjourn to meet again on Saturday, the first day of December, unless sooner summoned by the presiding officers, which power, in case of emergency, is hereby granted to them.

Finck, of Ohio, asked if that resolution was not a privileged question, and expressed that opinion, although he said there was no question—that if the two houses took a recess they could authorize the presiding officers to call them together at some day during the recess. If Congress adjourned sine die no power but the President could convene them in advance of the regular session.

Stevens moved to postpone the resolution until to-morrow for the purpose of giving gentlemen time to consider the question.

Harding, of Kentucky, enquired whether the resolution came in as a matter of consent.

The Speaker replied that it did; adding that the resolution was in order as a privileged question as it related to adjournment. He said on the other point if the two houses took a recess from Thursday until Monday, they could be supposed to authorize their presiding officers to call them together on Saturday if the exigency rendered it necessary.

Finck objected that this resolution conferred additional powers.

The Speaker admitted that it did, but did not think that changed the resolution from being a privileged question. All questions in respect to adjournment for one day or three or sine die, or to take a recess and everything connected with them were privileged questions, and had always been entertained by the Speaker when there was no other business before the House.

Trimble, of Kentucky, suggested, sarcastically, that it would be well to provide in the resolution that, if the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House disagreed as to whether they should reconvene Congress, there should be some umpire to decide between them.

The Speaker remarked that by the terms of the resolution the recess could not be terminated and Congress again convened unless the Presiding officers of both Houses agreed to it.

Finck moved to lay the resolution on the table.

Stevens withdrew the resolution, saying he would offer it again to-morrow.

The Speaker a few minutes afterwards stated to the House that as to the resolution offered by Stevens conferring power on the presiding officers of the two Houses to call Congress together he had not seen or known anything of it until it was read at the Clerk's desk; that he was still of the opinion he had expressed as to its being a privileged question as it related to adjournment, while its adoption would depend on the House. But the subject being so delicate as conferring additional powers which might prove of great consequence, he would if the subject should be presented to-morrow submit the question to the House as the rules authorized him to. He presumed that would satisfy the gentlemen better than if he were to make a ruling on the subject now.

Mr. Stevens remarked that it would be perfectly satisfactory.

O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, from the committee of conference on the bill further to provide for the safety of the lives of passengers on steam vessels, made a report, which was agreed to.

Shellabarger, of Ohio, called up as a question of privilege the report of the select committee on charges made by Conkling, of New York, in his place, against Provost Marshal Fry and his bureau. The report and argument cover 160 pages of printed matter. He said the report was unanimous.

In the Senate, Morrill, of Maine, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a joint resolution in relation to collectors of revenue who had failed to take the required oath of office, with an amendment as a substitute.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to pay a reasonable compensation to persons he employs for the purpose and who have been actively engaged collecting revenue within the States in insurrection, notwithstanding the failure or inability of such persons to take the oath of office required by law, provided such compensation shall not be greater in any case than that provided by law for officers of the revenue performing such services, and provided further that this act shall not be deemed to authorize the continuance of such persons in such employ.

This resolution was ordered printed.

Grimes introduced a bill to reorganize the Navy Department and to fix the pay of officers which was referred to the committee on naval affairs.

Morgan, of New York, from the committee on commerce, reported a bill to fix the compensation of certain collectors of customs and for other purposes, with an amendment to strike out the provisions relative to salaries and compensation of deputy collectors, naval officers and surveyors, and insert a section giving such officers in the ports of Boston, New York, New Orleans and San Francisco $5,000 per annum. It extends the provisions of the act of April 29th, 1864, increasing the compensation of inspectors of customs to July 1st, 1866. The bill was ordered printed.

Stewart, of Nevada, from the committee on public lands reported a bill granting the right of way to ditch and canal owners over the public lands in the States of California, Oregon and Nevada, with an amendment which protects miners in their rights of way and rights of priority as recognized by local custom and the decisions of the courts in mining districts. The bill was ordered printed.

Ramsey, of Minnesota, from the committee on post offices reported the House bill to establish post routes with verbal amendments. The bill was postponed until to-morrow.

Morrill of Maine, offered a resolution setting aside Friday the 20th inst., for the consideration of bills for the District of Columbia.

Johnson of Maryland, called up the bill for the relief of sufferers by the late fire in Portland. The bill provides that the President shall authorize the purchase of provisions, etc., for the sufferers. Johnson offered a substitute directing the President to tender Government aid of fifty thousand dollars for the relief of sufferers by the fire.

Trumbull, of Illinois, opposed the bill. He did not know where the authority came from to pass such a measure. Where was this kind of legislation to stop? If sufferers were to be relieved by Congress, why not those who have suffered elsewhere? He moved that it be referred to the Finance Committee.

Johnson said Trumbull had advocated the Freedmen's Bureau bill which would cost not $50,000 but $20,000,000. The bill now before the Senate was not the first of the kind passed. After the debate, the bill passed—ayes, 22; noes, 18.

Personal Items.

The jury in the case of ex-State Senator Strong against G. G. Bennett, of the Williamsburg Times, for libel, returned a verdict of six cents damages.

The Senate adopted unanimously a joint resolution for the relief of Mrs. Abbie Green, giving her $1,500 for her services in assisting 103 prisoners to escape from the Libby prison in 1863 and 1864.

It is announced from Washington that Hon. Norman B. Judd, late Minister to the Court at Berlin, is used by his friends as the Republican candidate for Congress in the Chicago district of Illinois, now represented by Mr. Wentworth.

A correspondent of the Memphis Argus writing from Egg's Point, says: "Ten or twelve miles below here, at Lake Washington, lives Lieutenant General Wade Hampton, the second greatest cavalry chieftain of the late Confederacy."

The Senate adopted a resolution instructing the Committee on the Public Grounds to inquire into the expediency of purchasing the land between Maryland avenue and Pennsylvania avenue east of the capitol, to Nineteenth street, for a national park on which to erect a Presidential mansion.

Laws, the ex-rebel General, who was recently elected clerk of the Supreme Court of Richmond county, North Carolina, has received an order from Gen. Tillson, commanding the State, forbidding him to hold or exercise any civil or political office. The order was similar to that served on Semmes by the Secretary of War.

BRITISH DESIGNS ON PACIFIC COMMERCE.—England already sees that when our Pacific Railroad shall be completed, we shall absorb a very large share of the Oriental commerce which she has heretofore enjoyed. Evidence is not wanting that her rulers and her merchants are already inquiring how they can best meet the new condition of things, and overcome the natural advantages belonging to our geographical position. A British line of steamers between Shanghae and San Francisco is already talked of. Of course this British line would never be guilty of the blunder of going by the way of Honolulu. It would take the most direct route between Japan and San Francisco, and would thus beat the American line several days each way, and, as a consequence, British influence would again overshadow us upon our own peculiar field. If this British line was already established no one would doubt for an instant that the American line should also take the direct route in order to compete with it. Surely, then, there can be no doubt that our China steamers should take the direct route now, because when it has once obtained command of the trade the fact will discourage the establishment of a British line, and in every event compel it to enter the field at a disadvantage, if at all.

Finally, if the China line is not released from touching at Honolulu except upon the condition that the contractors surrender a portion of their subsidy, the Company will execute the contract as it is to the letter. This I hear from such source that there can be no doubt of the Company's fixed determination in the premises. They are willing to surrender the Sandwich Islands traffic in consideration of the greater facilities for developing the Chinese and Japanese business, which the direct route will afford, but they say that they will prefer to make no modification of the existing contract involving a reduction of their subsidy. As Congress will adjourn within a month, probably, the matter must soon be definitely settled.—Washington Cor. Bulletin.

GREEN MOUNTAIN BOYS IN CONGRESS.—There are eighteen natives of Vermont in the present Congress—four in the Senate and fourteen in the House. In the Senate are Poland and Edmunds, also Howard of Michigan and Cragin of New Hampshire. In the House we have our three representatives, all born in the State; also Davis of New York, born at Middlebury; Hale of New York, born at Chelsea; Thad. Stevens, a native of Caledonia county; Delano of Ohio, born in Shore county; Washburne of Indiana, born in Windsor; Sawyer and Eldridge of Wisconsin, natives of Addison county; Grinnell of Iowa, born in Charlotte; and Phelps of Maryland, a half brother of Gen. Phelps of Brattleborough. Of the two Senators representing in part other states, Mr. Cragin was born in Weston, and Mr. Howard is a native of Bennington county.—Cor. S. F. Flag.

THE UNION PARTY.—The personnel of the Republican party is remarkable. In the North it comprises within its ranks nineteen twentieths of the members of all Protestant churches, excepting the Episcopalians—and a large majority of the members of that denomination; almost the entire membership of all moral or benevolent associations; four fifths of the literati, professional men, teachers, etc.; three fourths of the returned soldiers; a large proportion of the prominent business men—especially miners, manufacturers, bankers, and certainly a decided majority of the farming population. Ever since its formation this party has been growing with amazing rapidity, and its accessions have been principally from the above classes, which do not change easily, until now it controls every Northern State, including Missouri.

The National Intelligencer having stated that the press of California sustained the President, the Washington Chronicle contradicts the statement. Addressing the editor of the Intelligencer, the Chronicle says:

If you desire any further information on the subject, Cornelius Cole, the successor of McDougall in the Senate of the United States, now in Washington, will doubtless oblige you. Both Oregon and California are as resolutely on the side of Congress as they were on the side of Andrew Johnson before he had forgotten his pledges, forgiven the enemies of the republic, and resolved to persecute its friends.

SENSIBLE.—The New York Post, concludes a long discussion of the negro status, with the following sensible remark:

"If they do not work they will probably starve, if they cannot, having an equal chance, compete with white men in any calling or branch of business, they will probably be forced to take to others, they will by-and-by find out what they can do best, and then they will do that. Meantime if politicians and newspaper philosophers will only leave them alone, and be content to pay them for what service they get from them as they do other men, the whole negro question will settle itself. And it has got in the end to settle itself—no amount of stirring will settle it."

YOUNG MEN SCARCE.—One accustomed to the West and to cities, notices at once the disproportionate number of young men to be found in New England villages. The truth is that those not kept back by special ties, emigrate to the far West, or crowd into the cities on the seaboard. The Green Mountain Boys act upon the saying that "Vermont is a good place to emigrate from." No wonder the young farmers grow weary of digging, for a living among the rocks and on the hill sides when the rich lands of the West are so inviting. The Vermont boys give a good account of themselves, however, from their distant abodes. The toil of the hilly country is a good gymnasium to develop stalwart manhood.—Cor. S. F. Flag.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

SATURDAY MORNING JULY 21 1866

In the Embraces of his Friends

President Johnson has appealed from the friends of the Government to the friends of the late Confederacy, and the appeal has been answered. [illegible] that party which when he was [illegible] high office [illegible] drunken doting [illegible] traitor to his state and the like [illegible] approbative names. In proof of his reconcilement with the Democracy and in token of his being accepted by them, the great chief of the Northwestern Confederacy insurrection scheme has gone to Washington, probably on invitation to confirm him in the faith of the new party and mark out for him the future course of "my policy." As if it were determined to leave no doubt of the completeness of the reconciliation that has been effected between A. Johnson and his old party friends whom he deserted in 1860-61, Jesse D. Bright, a man whom he once voted to expel from the United States Senate on pretense that treason in a Senator is an offense that justifies expulsion, comes to the White House in company with Vallandigham, attended also by Faulkner, a person who served the Confederacy in various capacities while it had an existence, and who now naturally has a right to be reckoned among the confidential advisers of the modern "Moses." This select delegation is now at Washington and is no doubt closeted with the "drunken boor" (so called in Democratic parlance) tendering him valuable advice as to the best manner to put down the Northern "Radicals." Of course nobody will have the temerity or presumption to suggest that these chosen friends of Johnson's are not at Washington for the express purpose of helping him to carry out the policy of Lincoln. So afraid are these distinguished friends of the late President that the Lincoln policy will fail on account of the opposition of the "Radicals," that they must needs hasten to Washington to strengthen and encourage Johnson in his endeavor to carry it through. "My policy" must be a continuation of Lincoln's, else why should it be endorsed by such admirers of the late President as Vallandigham, Bright, Faulkner and A. H. Stephens?

The line dividing political parties is now being traced out very rapidly. But a little more than two months intervene until the fall elections and the supporters of "my policy" feel that they have no time to lose. The miserable sycophants who are content to sell themselves and their political principles (if they ever had any) to a master for "bread and butter," are rapidly falling in with the copperheads to form a "Johnson party." On the other hand, men of political integrity who have hitherto been associated with the President, are hastening to separate themselves from the "new party" movement and to take their position on the side of the tried party of the Union. No person who is a member of the great party which has preserved the Government, can longer be in doubt as to the position of the President. He is entirely in the hands of the copperheads, and will hereafter follow their counsels. There is no longer a single tie connecting him with the party which elected him. He has thrown himself into the embrace of traitors, and may be expected henceforth to act for their behoof and against the party that rescued his own State from the grasp of the rebellion. The true name for political ingratitude is Andrew Johnson.

The San Francisco Examiner of the 14th inst devotes a considerable space to a review of a new book, entitled "Southern Generals, their Lives and Campaigns." We beg to present a few quotations from this review as very suggestive of the direction which Democratic sympathies and opinions take:

> The lives of the Southern Generals have at this time, a peculiar charm.
>
> If Davis or Lee, to-day, were to put forth a book, it would command a greater sale than any work ever offered to our public by the booksellers. This is a cheering sign.
>
> Lee's defence of Richmond and Jackson's campaign against immense odds, must stand out as the most wonderful episodes in military history.
>
> Gen. Lee is the grand-son of the "rebel" Gen. Henry Lee of the Revolution, the staunch friend of the "rebel" General Washington.
>
> The first 170 pages [of a new book] are devoted to Gen Robert E. Lee, the greatest of living military men.

Oh! Well, then, we suppose it was Gen. Robert E. Lee who whipped Mr. Grant. Eh?

The New York Day Book (Democratic) refers to Gen. Grant's radicalism and threatens him with assassination. The threat is not made mincingly, but in language of unmistakable meaning. There can be little doubt that many Democrats, ever since the agents of the party failed to assassinate Gen. Grant at the time when they took Lincoln's life, have been looking for an opportunity to renew the attempt. The Day Book in making this threat is merely reminding the sworn band of Democratic assassins of their duty to their party.

Rev. William McGuire in the Virginia Diocesan Council of the Protestant Episcopal church, reported General Lee as having said before the fall of Richmond that "if the Southern Confederacy failed, its epitaph should be, 'Died of Congress and the newspapers.'" Southern papers may have helped to kill it, but this we know—but for the Northern copperhead newspapers the Confederacy would have died a year and a half sooner than it did. The hope doled out through their columns of coming Northern aid, kept the Southern heart fired when it was, otherwise, as dead as a spark in a wet blanket.

> Living in or near the town of Warrenton, Penn., are Lieut. Gen. Pemberton, Major Gen. William Smith, Major Gen. Lomax, Brig. Gen. Lomax, Brig. Gen. Hunton, Brig. Gen. Payne, Brig. Gen. Thomas Smith and Col. Mosby.—Eastern paper.

These "distinguished Confederates" will shortly evince their hostility to "Yankee tyranny" by supporting the new party ticket in Pennsylvania. It is their first opportunity since Gettysburg to strike at the "Yankees" on "Yankee" soil.

A Washington dispatch of June 19th says that Senator Williams on that day called up the bill to grant lands in aid of the construction of a railroad from Salt Lake City to the Columbia river, which was passed.

SALE OF MINERAL LANDS.—In the late debate in the Senate on the bill for the sale of the mineral lands Senator Williams totally opposed the scheme, saying:

> I have some personal knowledge of the mining business, living in a country where it is to some extent prosecuted, and that with what I have derived from my association with those engaged in that business satisfies me that it is unwise for the Government to enter upon any system of selling the mineral lands upon the Pacific coast. I am also instructed by the Legislative Assembly of the State which I have the honor to represent in part upon this floor to oppose any proposition to sell the lands, and although perhaps I should not implicitly follow these instructions upon a subject of this kind if they did not accord with my own judgment, still as they do agree with the opinions which I entertain I propose to follow and obey them. Other gentlemen may possess different information on the subject, but so far as I am advised, the practical miners of the country are almost if not quite unanimously opposed to any proposition of this kind. I think they not only understand their own interests but they understand the interests of the country, and I would rather take the opinion of a practical miner upon this subject than any opinion of any man, I do not care how profound he may be in wisdom or philosophy, where that opinion is formed on speculation or theory.

The Humboldt Register says the monthly serenade for May came off in regular turn in front of the White House, Washington. The President told the crowd: "If we pursue correct principles all will come out right." A new version of "Be virtuous and you will be happy."

FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA MINES

THE RICHNESS OF GROUSE CREEK

A letter in the Colonist, dated June 29th, says: Look at Grouse Creek now, that was given up as a "fizzle" three years ago because there was nothing found in the bed of the creek. But just as soon as one energetic company cuts through the rim-rock in the hill and finds a rich deposit, that pays from 2 ozs to 6 ozs per day to the hand, a second and a third company follow with the same results, and now a fourth, the Wake Up Jake Company, will get through the rock this week and are sure to strike the same rich lead. Other companies will meet with the same success just as fast as they get through the same rim rock. There is no use in spinning long yarns about the richness of the country; let us be content to speak of what we know and see. Why along the shores of Lakes Kamloops and Shuswap you can pick up pieces of silver ore rock at most every step. This I know myself from my nine days traveling experience, and at one place, near a point called Cape Horn, you can load a small wagon with the richest kind of silver ore rock. This can be substantiated by any person who has traveled along the shore from Cape Horn towards Seymour.

CANYON CREEK AND ITS VICINITY

Canyon Creek empties into the Fraser from the left bank 65 miles up from here. It heads from the direction of Williams Creek, and by rough calculation is northwest and about 100 miles from Williams Creek. The country around it is not very mountainous. It somewhat resembles the vicinity of the mouth of Quesnelle, and is timbered about the same. There are several other creeks of the same size on the diggings in the vicinity of Canyon. The only means of access to the new mines at present is by small boats from here, and there are several under construction now by parties from Williams Creek. There has been considerable mining done there for the past two years by a party of Chinamen, and I am informed by Wu Sling, a Chinese trader here, that two of the original party of 10 went home with about $1,500 each, all in coarse gold taken out of the bed of the creek—one piece weighing $150. This was the proceeds of one season's work. He also informed me that several parties have applied to Kwong Lee & Co. for provisions to go there and work, but owing to the high price of everything and a dangerous canyon to go through 30 miles from here, no one would run the risk of losing any amount of provisions until lately, when everything became cheaper and the risk comparatively speaking, nothing, to the amount involved. The late new strikes in the banks of different parts of the creek have drawn the attention of a large number of men to that locality, with the most flattering results. The amount of ground that is known to pay now from $6 to $30 per day to the hand will give employment to 1,500 men in the banks along, to say nothing about the bed of the creek.

The sample I enclose you is some of the finest part of $80, the proceeds of two days work by Messrs. Shepperd, Hickson and McLees, with sluices from one of the tributaries which empty into the Canyon. It is the first prospect that has ever been obtained from the said tributary, or rather the first prospecting that was ever done on it.

Canyon Creek is larger than Williams Creek, but the banks, unlike those of Williams Creek, are a succession of flat benches, from which the present pay is obtained. It extends upwards of 15 miles, so far as explored at present.

FROM VICTORIA

By the Fideliter, we have Victoria papers to the 18th. The following items are clipped from the Colonist and Chronicle:

The Josie McNear is refitting at Olympia, and the Puget Sound mails were brought across once more by the Pioneer, which arrived last night.

Mr. James Arthur, an aged and highly respected citizen of Esquimalt, died on the 16th inst. at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. F. Williams.

Wm. Lyons, of the Great Eastern, charged a man named George Sellnes yesterday in the Police Court with receiving fifteen dollars for the purpose of not testifying in a charge preferred against him (Lyons) for receiving property knowing it to be stolen.

Post offices are now in operation at Savanna's Ferry and Seymour, British Columbia, under the charge of the Post master General.

The Telegraph has the following:

Mr. McCrea held a large sale to-day of brandies, sugars, etc. Hennessy and Martell, in casks, sold for $2 to $2.05; seven or eight cases of Old Tom $5c; sugar from $6.60 to $7.75.

The bark Evelyn Wood brings for the Western Telegraph Company 25 miles submarine cable, with iron tank fittings and force pump, and 2,860 bails telegraph wire. The ship Mohawk also brings 6,079 coils of wire.

The Western Union Telegraph Company's bark Onward, Capt. Tibbett, arrived yesterday morning at one o'clock from San Francisco. She brings 4 employes of the company, who are under the charge of Lieut. J. Lee, and will proceed in a few days in the Onward to Petropolauski, where they will be employed in the construction of the line. Eight of the party are telegraph operators, and will be stationed along the line as it is constructed. The Onward will discharge about fifty tons of freight for the use of the parties constructing the line through British Columbia. She will then take on board about 200 tons of the wire which has just arrived per Mohawk and Evelyn Wood from London.

FROM BIG BEND

The Victoria Telegraph contains the following Big Bend news:

LETTER FROM FRENCH CREEK

Mr. Wilson of Fort Street received last night a letter from his partner, Mr. Murray, from French Creek, dated June 30th. The writer says "things look very bad on French Creek at present; there are only about 150 men on the creek, and about ten claims that are paying anything of any account. There are some first class houses put up here, but I don't know what they will do unless things improve. There is one bakery with a hotel here, but they don't sell much. Unless something is struck soon the place will be deserted."

FROM CARNES CREEK

A letter from Carnes Creek says:

We had a long and rough trip, and did not reach the Columbia until the 28th of April, since which time we have been prospecting until the last fortnight, when we located on Carnes Creek; we have taken out a few ounces already, but the water is very high at present, and we can't tell how it may turn out. There have been about 600 men in the country, but I don't suppose that there are more than half that number here at present. A unusual one half of the men who came into the country are now at the mines on a bilk, and leave without doing a single day's prospecting. There is nothing more known of the country than was known last fall; the diggings as far as is yet known are very limited, but I have no doubt fresh discoveries will be made as soon as the high waters are over so that men can prospect to advantage.

* * * * * * * * * *

There have been so many going down the Columbia lately that the merchants did not send up any freight on the steamer this last trip, and the consequence was that flour rose immediately from 45c to 55c per lb, and other things in proportion. I do not feel as I did before you and I think [illegible] things will look brighter before the summer is over anyway.

FROM WASHINGTON TERRITORY

We learn by a passenger [illegible] from Olympia [illegible] that the opposition stage lines have [illegible] Irish competition [illegible] carrying passengers at the regular fare of $10 and when starting together frequently come [illegible]

The Telegraph says: A [illegible] demand for lumber [illegible] and the [illegible] all the business of the Puget Sound mills which has been unprofitably dull for two years past will greatly revive within a few weeks.

The Fideliter on her last trip took a detachment of United States soldiers to San Juan Island.

The Josie McNear is at Olympia undergoing repairs. She received considerable damage in getting up from San Francisco. It is expected she will come [illegible] making regular trips in the [illegible] of a week or ten days.

GOOD FOR CHARLOTTE.—The Paris correspondent of a Boston paper tells this story: I heard the other day of a mot of Miss Cushman's. Some one said to her while recently in Paris, "Miss Cushman, were you born in Boston?" "If I had not been I would hang myself with my garter."

SPOTTED LIKE DOMINOES.—The teeth soon become speckled if every defilement is not removed from them every twenty four hours. To do this effectually there is nothing like Sozodont. It literally renders the enamel impervious and indestructible.

The Markets

Flour—Market quiet and firm.

Wheat—The recent decline [illegible] market though offerings are small. Sales of prime new in two lots for export at $1 75.

Barley—In shade firmer. Sales for at $1 75.

Oats—New at $1 45@1 45. The quality of [illegible] the market ranges at $1 70@1 65. [illegible] 100 [illegible] scarce.

Gold—Legal Tenders—Mining Stock.

Gold in New York yesterday was 150@150⅞. The latter price determines Sterling Exchange 109. The demand for [illegible] for the next steamer is attributed as the cause for the above advance in the day before.

Money is reported easy on the street, offerings having been made to-day at 1½@1¾ per cent. Bank rates are 1¼ per cent.

ARCHITECTURAL BEAUTY.—In large cities and the larger towns the architect will [illegible] style [illegible] America practically [illegible] will be a [illegible] gance is seldom and Architecture is divided into three distinct branches—civil, military and naval. As long as it is practical and [illegible] with the rules of harmony [illegible] nature is a knowledge of the arts. The art of building had its origin [illegible] procure protection [illegible] countries remote from the influence of religion [illegible] style is as [illegible] Greeks varied styles [illegible] imposing [illegible] Corinthian [illegible] symbolism [illegible] Zend Avesta [illegible] circuit of the [illegible] interprets [illegible] Magi [illegible] Siam they have their temples while the pyramids of Egypt are symbolical of the r[illegible] Athens possessed her Parthenon, while Rome had her Pantheon. Byzantium was adorned with the altar of a christian emperor. Ancient Cordova had her mosque on which the Moors spent the riches of oriental taste. Later we have the Cathedral of Cologne, the perfection of that art destined by Barbarossa as the sepulchre of the Magi who came from the East to adore the Saviour. Modern Rome possesses her St. Peter's that sublime classic structure, which Michael Angelo lavished his genius. The Hindoos, Egyptian temples, palaces, tombs and other structures on a classical scale with which Egypt abounds shows that her people were in advance [illegible] of the arts [illegible] Like the Hindoo structures they were remarkable for their gigantic and massive proportions. Egypt lavished her architectural genius on [illegible] tombs [illegible] We know but little concerning the habitations of the masses, but we must assume that their houses were constructed [illegible] while there [illegible] will thus be seen that their efforts were directed to [illegible] constructing eternal homes. Besides wonderful cities of the dead [illegible] monuments existing [illegible] structures [illegible] developed from the Egyptians and Asiatic nations a style peculiarly their own and architecture passed from the [illegible] elegant [illegible] their [illegible] fabulous sums and the whole nation, it would be turned from the main point of the country. Display on private residences was forbidden by law, the architects being only permitted to work for the governments. The cities abounded with temples, theatres, odeums, gymnasiums and monuments. Writers say that personal observation is necessary to obtain a correct idea of the purity and grace of their buildings and [illegible] the harmony of their different styles. These styles are what are known to us as the Doric, Ionic and Corinthian. Obscurity surrounds the origin and history of the [illegible] style, although it is generally admitted that Vitruvius belongs the invention of the [illegible] principles. The history of Roman architecture is also obscure. When Athens was conquered by the Romans its spoils enriched the Empire, and the Greeks seeking the patronage of the Roman adorned the imperial city with beautiful works of art. Amidst the aqueducts, the baths of Agrippa, Nero, etc., the palaces, hippodromes and other public works arose the Flavian amphitheatre, the colosseum capable of containing more than 100,000 spectators. This was partially destroyed in 1044, but from its ruins the popes have taken enough material to construct several palaces. Since the 16th century the classic style has declined. The architectural aim [illegible] of the 19th century would seem to be eclectic. England and France in some of their public works have combined all styles of the art. Iron has superseded the grosser materials, especially in the United States, in the more solid portions of the building as well as in the ornamentation. This innovation (if it may be so called) of introducing iron in the architecture of public and private buildings in American cities and towns is likely to create a revolution of the art in the old world. The most graceful and striking structures on the Atlantic and Pacific shores are adorned with iron material.

COULDN'T PLAY HIM.—Not long since a back specimen fresh from the rural districts took a trip to Portland. As he was passing down one of our thoroughfares he saw a card in a window on which was painted "Soda—a bit a glass." Our friend thought he would try some of that "sody which he'd heern tell on." Entering the door and calling for the cooling beverage he was started almost out of his boots as the proprietor turned the faucet. Rush! fiz! whish! went the escaping gas and water. The countryman jumped backward with an indignant and frightened look exclaiming "No Sir! no siree! you can't play that on me! Blowed if I drink your bilin' hot soap suds!"

BIG ONIONS.—We saw an onion at J O Ochenor & Co's, No. 90, First street, yesterday, that may be called a "whopper." It measured eighteen inches around the "bulge," and weighed one and a half pounds. If in Union there is strength, what shall we say of onions!

EXTRA TRIP.—The Fannie Troup came from Vancouver last night with company F, Capt. Waters. This company is composed mostly of Linn county boys, who have just been mustered out and are on their way home. They chartered the Troup yesterday expressly to bring them thus far on their way.

CIRCUIT COURT.—SHATTUCK, J.—Not much business transacted in this court yesterday. Thomas Thoburn vs John Dascher, William Blackston, et al. Report of commissioners filed and decree of partition of land in accordance therewith.

FREIGHT.—We are informed by officers of P. T. Co. that a good amount of freight goes daily up the Willamette to different towns and trading posts. This does not look as though business was at all stagnant.

PORTLAND BOUND STEAMERS.—The steamship Oriflamme, Capt. Connor, and the steam propeller Montana, Capt. Kelly, leave San Francisco for this port this afternoon and may be expected here Tuesday night.

VICTORIA STEAMER.—The steamer Fidelater, Capt. Erskine, arrived at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Her memoranda, freight and passenger list will be found in another column.

CHANGE OF RESIDENCE.—Dr. R. Glisan has removed his residence to the corner of Stark and Third streets, formerly occupied by Col. A. P. Dennison.

SAN FRANCISCO FINANCES.—The balance of cash on hand in the City Treasury of San Francisco, according to the Treasurer's last report, was $.13,777 84.

PEACHES.—Fine peaches have made their appearance in market. Some of the various kinds we saw yesterday made the editorial mouth water.

REBELS IN EUROPE.—A Paris letter to the Sacramento Union contains the following paragraph?

Lieutenant Maury has been in Paris, exhibiting a torpedo of wonderful destructive power, which he has invented since he became a Mexican citizen, and regretting we presume that he did not conceive it in season to blow up the ships of the Government which had educated him and to which he had sworn allegiance. To-day he is in London, to meet those who are delegated to present him three thousand guineas as a testimony of their sympathy with his misfortunes and admiration of his genius. General Beauregard arrived in Liverpool a fortnight since, and is said to have come to Europe to negotiate a loan in favor of the railroad company of which he is President.

PLUCKY.—The little Kearny Herald is plucky to the core. It has heretofore preached that the two lines of the Pacific Railroad would unite at Fort Kearny. Since the passage of the bill for their union near the Rocky Mountains it says railroads are of no account, and that all the heavy freighting will be done by wagons anyhow.

COUGHS AND COLDS ARE OFTEN OVERLOOKED.—A continuance for any length of time causes irritation of the Lungs or some chronic Throat Disease. Brown's Bronchial Troches are offered with the fullest confidence in their efficacy, giving almost invariably sure and immediate relief.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhoea, Cholera and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. [illegible]

Beware of imposters. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION

Strength of the Contending Powers.

I—PRUSSIA.

The area of Prussia is at present 104,212 English square miles or about equal to the combined territory of Georgia and Florida. The population, according to the census of 1861, was 19,304,843, falling but little below that of the Northern States of the Union. The great majority of the population are Germans; the total number of persons belonging to non-German nationalities being 2,504,1.9. A considerable portion of the latter are feeble remnants of small tribes, which are rapidly being absorbed by the German nationality. Within the last few years the Government of Prussia made several important additions to the former dominions, acquiring first the two Principalities of Hohenzollern, next the important sea coast district Yahde, which it purchased from Oldenburg, and more recently the duchy of Lauenburg, which was ceded to it by Austria for a pecuniary consideration. It holds, moreover, possession of Schleswig, and avows its intention to permanently annex to Prussia both this Duchy and that of Holstein. In point of administration Prussia is not inferior to any other country in the world. Its finances, unlike those of Austria and Italy, are in a sound condition; its army discipline has long been the admiration of the entire civilized world. The army, on a war footing, numbers 700,000, and its fleet consisted, in 1865, of 47 steamers, 8 sailing vessels, 40 rowing vessels; total, 85 war vessels. The reigning King is William I., born in 1797, who succeeded his brother Frederic William IV., in 1861.

II.—AUSTRIA.

The Austrian Empire, as at present constituted, is divided into nineteen Provinces, the area of which is 236,311 English square miles, with a total population, according to computation, of 35,750,000 souls. This population is divided, with respect to race and language, into no fewer than twelve different nationalities, namely:

Germans	8,200,000	Servians	1,470,000
Bohemians, Moravians & Slovacks	3,000,000	Bulgarians	25,000
		Magyars	5,050,000
		Italians (inclusive of Latins & Friaulis)	3,000,000
Poles	2,200,000
Russians	2,800,000	Eastern Romans	2,700,000
Slavonians	1,210,000	Members of other races	1,480,000
Croats	1,300,000

Austria is one of the great military powers of Europe, her army on the war footing being over a million of men. The navy, however, is comparatively small, consisting, in August 1864, of 38 steamers with 630 guns, and 11,730 horse power, and 20 sailing vessels with 145 guns. Great efforts have been made within the last few years to raise the Imperial navy to a state of high efficiency by the substitution of steam for sailing vessels, and the gradual formation of an iron-clad fleet of war. Austria has become a constitutional monarchy since 1849, the main features of the constitution consisting, first, of the Provincial Diets, representing the various States of the monarchy; secondly, a Central Diet, or Council of the Empire; and thirdly, a reduced form of the latter, or Partial Council of the Empire as it is called. The public debt of the Empire, which at the commencement of the French revolution in 1789 was $174,500,000, had grown in 1863 to $1,210,222,085. From 1789 to the present time there has not been a single year in which the revenue of the State has come up to the expenditure. The present Emperor, Francis Joseph I., was born August, 1830, and was proclaimed Emperor and King in consequence of the abdication of his uncle, Ferdinand I., and the renunciation of his father, Francis Charles, December 2, 1848. He was Commander-in-Chief of the Austrian army in the Italian campaign of 1859.

III.—ITALY.

The Kingdom of Italy has an area of 98,784 English square miles, with a population, according to the last census, taken in the Spring of 1861, of 21,703,710 souls, being on an average, 220 inhabitants to the square mile; a figure higher than that of France and Germany, but lower than that of England. There has been in some of the Provinces a rapid increase of population of late years; but the increase of wealth has been much more rapid within the last century than the increase of population. The great mass of the people are devoted to agricultural pursuits, and the town population is comparatively small. It has a seafaring population of 158,692 individuals, nearly all of whom are liable to the maritime conscription. The military organization of the Kingdom is based on conscription, and the standing army consists of more than 200,000 men on a peace footing, and more than 400,000 on a war establishment. The navy of the Kingdom consisted in 1865 of 98 steamers of 20,760 horse power, with 2,160 guns, and 17 sailing vessels with 279 guns; altogether, 115 men of war with 2,439 guns. Italy has a public debt of nearly eight hundred millions of dollars. The expenditure is largely in excess of the annual revenue. The reigning Sovereign, Victor Emanuel II., was born March 14, 1820, and is the eldest son of King Charles Albert of Sardinia, and Archduchess Theresa of Austria. He succeeded to the throne on the abdication of his father, March 23, 1849, and was proclaimed King of Italy by vote of the Italian Parliament, March 17, 1861.

IV.—THE GERMAN CONFEDERATION.

The German Confederation was organized in 1815, upon the ruins of the German Empire which had been dissolved in 1806. The object of the Confederacy, according to the first article of the Federal Constitution, is "the preservation of the internal and external security of Germany, and the independence and inviolability of the various German States." The organ and representative of the Confederation is the Federal Diet, consisting of Plenipotentiaries of the several German States, and permanently located in the free city of Frankfort. The administrative Government of the Federal Diet is constituted in two forms: 1st. As a General Assembly or Plenum, in which every member of the Confederation has at least one vote, and the larger States have two, three or four votes each; and second, the Minor Council, or Committee of Confederation, in which the eleven largest States cast one vote each, while six votes are given to the smaller States, a number of them combined having a joint vote. The Presidency is permanently vested in Austria. The General Assembly decides on war and peace, on the admission of new members, on any changes in the fundamental laws or organic institutions, but in all other cases the Minor Council is competent to act as legislative and executive.

At the time of its establishment the Confederacy embraced 39 members, but of these four (Saxe-Gotha, Anhalt-Bernburg, Anhalt-Koethen and Hesse-Homburg, have become extinct,) and two (Hohenzollern-Hechingen and Hohenzollern Sigmaringen) have been incorporated with Prussia, leaving, at present, 33 sovereign States. They have together an area of 242,867 square miles, and, in 1864, a population of over 46,000,000 people, exceeding the aggregate population of British America, the United States, Mexico and Central America, and being in Europe inferior to that of no country except Russia. The federal army numbers about 700,000.

Austria and Prussia belong, with only a part of their several dominions, to this confederation; Austria with a population of 12,802,944, Prussia with a population of 14,714,024. Prussia, therefore, and not Austria, is in point of population the first German State, and this priority is still more prominent if we take into account the provinces of both powers not belonging to this Confederation.

Deducting the population of the two great German powers, a population is left for the other States of about 19,000,000, with a Federal Army of about 300,000. As the record of the votes of the Federal Diet during the last year shows the great majority of the minor States side with or at least lean toward Austria, and it is still commonly believed, that soon after an outbreak of war between Austria and Prussia, the Diet will declare a Federal war against Prussia.

All parties in Germany, Austria, Prussia, the Minor Governments, and all the political parties among the people, are in favor of establishing a Central National Parliament, as a step toward the ultimate establishment of one German Empire. This point is therefore likely to be one of the results of the impending war.

The following are Washington dispatches of June 20th:

The receipts on account of Internal revenue for the present year, up to the 19th inst., inclusive, amount to $299,018,436, leaving less than one million of dollars to complete $300,000,000, the estimate made at the Bureau of Internal Revenue. It is now believed that the receipts of the fiscal year ending with the 30th of this month, will amount to $306,000,000 from taxes from internal revenue alone.

The notorious Dick Turner, turnkey of the Libby prison during the war, was yesterday released from confinement by order of Secretary Stanton. Turner was arrested shortly after the capture of Richmond, and has been confined ever since.

At a recent meeting held in Indianapolis, Gov. Morton delivered a speech, which the Cincinnati Commercial says, "was the most terrible arraignment and startling denunciation of the Democratic party that has been made by any public man of conspicuity since the close of the war. Never before did Gov. Morton speak so unreservedly of the obstacles he had to overcome in the malignant and deadly opposition of the Sons of Liberty of Indiana to the prosecution of the war."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

PORTLAND, July 20th, 1866.

As there are no particular or important changes in commercial or financial circles, we will furnish the readers of the OREGONIAN with some extracts upon miscellaneous matter from the East.

The deposits and coinage at the Mint at Philadelphia for the month of May were as follows: Gold and Silver deposits, including purchases $1,309,647; Gold coinage $1,110,930; Silver, $25,319; Copper, $19,249. Total, $1,154,498. The total coinage at the same Mint for the month of April was $1,441,141 and for March $1,505,148. Total for three months, $4,099,778.

The receipts of Cotton at the various ports in the United States from September 1, 1865 to May 25, 1866, aggregate 1,862,000 bales. The exports to Great Britain, France and other foreign ports during the same period were 1,260,000 bales, of which 1,109,000 bales were sent to Great Britain. The estimated stock on hand at various ports in the United States May 25th, was 471,000 bales. The new crop has been variously estimated, at different times, from 3,000,000 to 1,500,000 bales, the last figures being the latest estimate, and probably the most reliable. At least the last mail accounts from different parts of the South, taken as a whole do not seem to justify any larger yield than 1,500,000 bales. In some parts of North Carolina most of the early planted Cotton seed was turning out bad, in other localities cool mornings and evenings and continued dry weather were exerting an unfavorable influence on the crops. In South Carolina no better state of things existed. In some parts of that State the crop had died out when only about two inches high, and it was thought to be useless to plant again unless better seed could be obtained, which was next to impossible. Heavy rains and continued damp and cool weather had injured the seed in other parts of the State, while severe winds had hurt the sprouting Cotton elsewhere in the same State. The freedmen generally were working with a zeal and earnestness beyond the universal expectations at the beginning of the year. In Georgia, complaints of a falling off in the prospects of the crop were general. In some localities there, grass and other impediments, failure of the seed to germinate, wet weather, and other causes were operating against anything like an average crop. One gentleman stated that he had not met a single planter in all Georgia who estimated the crop above 1,500,000 bales, and in order to secure even this amount timely showers, warm sunshine and a late fall were thought to be necessary. The freedmen were working well as a general thing. Excessive rains in many portions of Alabama, together with the overflow of the Warrior river, had greatly injured the crop, rendering it necessary to replant in some cases, provided seed could be obtained, of which there was much doubt. The freedmen were conducting themselves in a highly creditable manner, and, appreciating their position, were laboring faithfully under the contracts made. One gentleman in Mississippi, who had planted 300 acres in Cotton, was obliged to abandon half of the field, owing to the heavy rains and growth of grass, in order to save the other half. With good luck he hoped to raise one hundred bales. The same was the case with a neighbor of his, who had planted 600 acres. Both of these gentlemen used old and new seed. Another person, working ten hands, with lands eligibly situated, has a fine prospect for a fair crop. Other fields, from 100 to 800 acres, were variously reported good, bad and indifferent. When the freedmen were working on shares, they were doing poorly. One planter was getting rid of his colored help as fast as they were willing to leave him. Later accounts from the same State, after the heavy rains there, were not even so favorable as above. An old and trustworthy planter in Newton county, Miss., was of the opinion that the crop would not exceed 1,000,000 bales. In Louisiana, unpropitious weather, poor seed, and the listlessness of the freedmen, were having a bad influence on the crop. In some localities, the heavy rains had completely washed out the seed on the hill-lands, and so submerged the low-lands, as to start the grass beyond the power of control. The Red river had been very high, and 16 miles below Alexandria, the levee had given away, submerging a large tract of country and destroying the crops generally. Not more than one-third of the crop of 1861, in Louisiana, was expected this year. In some parts of Florida, the quantity of cotton planted was about two-thirds of that of 1859-'60. Heavy rains had also been experienced in that State, and the water courses had been high for weeks, inundating bottom lands in places, and rendering replanting necessary. Owing to the want of seed, however, in some localities, planters were putting corn into fields they had designed for Cotton. Notwithstanding these and other drawbacks, a fair crop was expected. Of the two-thirds of the Cotton crop in Arkansas, which has not been destroyed, one-half may make an average yield, but the remainder will turn out badly. Cold, wet weather and poor seed were held accountable for this condition of the crop. In some portions of Tennessee the cut worm had injured the crop very much. The Cotton planted in that section of the country tributary to Memphis, was equal to about three-fourths of the amount before the war. Some planters are complaining of the stands being bad, on account of old seeds. Under favorable circumstances, Memphis will ship this fall and winter at least 300,000 bales. The largest amount exported from that city in any one season before the war was 400,000 bales. From Texas the same general unfavorable reports are received, with slight exceptions. Cold weather, heavy rains, inferior seed, and other causes had seriously interfered with the prospects of a good crop. Planters who had been sanguine a short time ago, that the Cotton crop of the United States this season would be 2,000,000 or 2,500,000 bales, were now satisfied to reduce their estimate one-half. The foregoing comprises the spirit of the reports concerning the Cotton crop as gathered from our latest Eastern advices, and we think will be found interesting to the general reader.

Local and Pacific coast finances may be summed up in a few words. Brokers quote Legal Tenders 70½ buying, 71½ selling. Money continues easy at at 1@1½, bankers' rates. Receipts of treasure from the interior since July 1st, aggregate nearly $2,000,000. The general markets have shown a little more activity during the past week, compared with the previous one, though trade is very dull. The loss of the Hornet may stiffen the market for some kinds of merchandise, especially for oils and paints, of which she had a good invoice, though no tightness of any importance is expected.

The mining stock market continues unsatisfactory.

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

LEFFEL'S

American Double Turbine Water Wheel

IS NOW MANUFACTURED BY THE OREGON IRON Works, in the city of Portland, and orders for the same can be filled immediately. We have a small supply of the different sizes, from 10 inches to 48 inches in diameter. That we may know the proper sized wheel you require, measure your water in the following way: Take the width of the stream, the average depth, and the distance it flows in a minute.

All the wheels now in use give universal satisfaction. Both the construction of the wheel and its performance, commend it to the better judgment of all minds capable of appreciating the highest development of mechanical construction. Therefore it has conquered the most violent opposition.

This wheel is especially adapted to mining purposes. It is light, and can be easily packed into the mountains. Wheels weighing from 100 to 300 pounds will yield from 10 to 40 horse power, under a head of 25 or 30 feet. They are the cheapest wheel to set up known, as they are so arranged as to produce the greatest power possible from the water used.

The prices of these wheels have now been reduced to the ability of all. Come and see them or send for a circular to

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering and a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. offers One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give each patient a written instrument, binding himself to a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in a registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney street, near Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 1,957. Consultations FREE.

Prevention Better than Cure.

The newly Invented Patent French Preventive against Diseases and Pregnancy. Price $2. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney St., near Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.
